

Gloria Kloter, Assoc. AIA

About Gloria Kloter

Gloria Kloter is a foreign licensed Architect from the Dominican Republic who is in the process of transferring her architecture license to Florida. She is a CODIA and International Associate AIA. Gloria has a Bachelors of Architecture from Autonomus University of Santo Domingo, and a Masters of Architecture with an emphasis in Interior Architecture with a double degree from University of Coruña, Spain; and from Pontifical Catholic Mother And Master University, Santo Domingo.

With over 14 years of combined national and international experience, Gloria excels in multiple fields. She established her firm in 2009 back in the Dominican Republic and her specialty was in commercial interior architecture. Among her projects is the design of Steve Madden in Blue Mall, Santo Domingo, which was published by the architectural Journal Arquitexto with an excellent review regarding her outstanding design. She also has been interviewed for multiple articles by the Dominican nationwide newspaper HOY regarding her experience in the field of Architecture and Interior Design.

Gloria has a passion for mentoring and helping others around her. From 2008 to 2015 she was a professor of Architectural Drafting and Interior Design in the School of Design Altos De Chavon in Santo Domingo, this school is affiliated with Parsons The School of Design in NYC. Gloria also volunteered with TECHO where she built houses with her own hands for families who lived in extreme poverty in the Dominican Republic.

Gloria came to live in Florida in 2015 and has been working at Studio+ since 2016, where she specializes in healthcare, assisted living facilities, memory care, education and office buildings. She currently serves as the Associate Director of the AIA Tampa Bay where she's in charge of the Emerging professionals' agenda which includes firm crawls, weekly ARE study groups, the development of mentorship programs and social events, where the focus is to address the needs of the Emerging Professionals in the Tampa Bay area who are in different phases within their licensure path. For several seasons, Gloria has been part of the Architecture in Education at the Lee Elementary School, which is an 8-week program where architecture professionals teach 5th grade kids about Architecture. She also serves as an ambassador of the nationwide ARE Bootcamp, a program offered by youngarchitect.com developed by Michael Riscica. In this program she serves as a mentor, hosts meetups and helps individuals who are studying for and taking the ARE. Driven by her passion for Architecture, Gloria revived the Women in Architecture Tampa Bay, where she now serves as the Chair and Director of the WIA Tampa Bay committee.
