

Marina Wray, Assoc.AIA, LEED Green Associate

About Marina Wray

Marina is an international emerging professional. Was born in Moscow, Russia in the family of artists. Graduated from Repin School of Art + Design (1994-1999) magna cum laude. Her artworks were exhibited at the major Moscow museums (Pushkin Museum of Fine Arts, Museum of Modern Arts etc). The years of 2004-2005 Marina spent in Japan studying environmental design at Tokai University. Graduated from Moscow State University in 2007 with the major in Japanese Art & Culture.

Marina has worked in Architectural Design since 2012 after graduating from European School Of Arts, concentration in Interior Design. After moving to the US in 2014 Marina worked as an interior designer at Internum&Design Miami, obtained her real estate license, got certified as a new construction specialist and was working with the residential and commercial interiors. Marina is currently working on her Architect license and Master's Degree at the UF School of Architecture. In 2018 Marina received her LEED Green Associate certificate and has actively been volunteering at the Habitat For Humanity Home Build construction sites.

Starting August 2018 Marina serves as a Women In Architecture Committee Coordinator, AIA Tampa Bay.

Marina is a truly global, diverse, environment protection oriented, sustainable architecture & design professional; she is inspiring others and promoting creative approach. When not in the office, Marina likes to spend time with her kids and husband, travel and cook.